Younger singers will be led by Beth Juran; older ones by Anne Saxon. In the afternoons they'll also experience making sugar cake, making candles, trying out different musical instruments in a "petting zoo", and having visits from such Moravian personalities as Count Zinzendorf and others.

Youth will have the opportunity to join the festival chorus, hand bell choir, concert band, trombone choir, or festival orchestra for a week of music making and instruction.

Parents will bring their children to a designated drop-off area at 9:00 a.m., and may pick them up at 5:00 p.m. The children will present a musical program on Friday afternoon, July 28, at 2:00 p.m., which will be open to the public.
